Commander's Message

By Alex Kolander, 414-322-8702

GREETINGS FELLOW LEGIONNAIRES:

WOW, fall is here already and it seems that summer just started. I hope everyone enjoyed the summer as short as it seems it was. But I believe most of us enjoy fall the best.

You ever wonder where some people's common sense went? I have members say to me, "I remember when the bar was 6 deep, where are all these people now?" Or, "Since you have become commander, none of our members come here anymore." The members who lined up 6 deep are, unfortunately, 6 feet underground. Additionally, the mean age for our members is around 68 now. Also, many members live out of state or far away. Most do not venture far anymore and certainly don't want to drive at night (when we are open). For many, drinking alcohol has become something of the past as we age. I guess that may be hard for some to believe!

Please remember to mark your calendars for our next two great events. September 11th, our celebration of leadership is from 5 to 10pm. Free food and beer are presented by a great supporter of Legion post 449, Joel Bechitsao. On October 5th we will celebrate Octoberfest, where I will be doing a 120-pound pig roast with all the extras that go along with it. Catering will be done by Wicked Thyme. There will be a 50/50 raffle and a German costume contest with a first prize of $100.00, second prize of $75.00 and third prize of $50.00.

Please send in your 2026 membership dues to help the Legion's goals and objectives along with supporting post 449.

Remember, the month of September starts our Friday and Saturday live music. Try our Fish Fry on Friday nights served by Wicked Thyme Catering.

AND GOD SAID:

A soft answer turns away wrath, but a harsh word stirs up anger. (Proverbs 15:1)

If anyone thinks he is religious and does not bridle his tongue but deceives his heart, this person's religion is worthless. (James 1:26)

VA NEWS & INFORMATION:

VA regulations permit for a large scale of emotional, psychological and physical disabilities, some well- known, others rarely thought about by VSOs, VA medical staff or veterans. Some veterans suffer from psychological disorders that prevent them from sustaining gainful employment such as depression, anxiety and PTSD. However, this once rare disorder amongst veterans is on the rise and many veterans may suffer from it and not know it.

Veterans who served on active military duty service in Gulf War I or II may have been exposed to a byproduct of the uranium enrichment process that makes nuclear fuel. Depleted uranium (DU) may be one of the main byproducts many veterans were exposed to and may result in physical or mental conditions.

Who May Be At Risk?
Veterans who served on active military duty service in any of the conflicts listed below may qualify for the DU Follow-Up Program:

- 1990-1991 Gulf War
- Bosnia
- Operation Enduring Freedom
- Operation Iraqi Freedom
- Operation New Dawn

Veterans who believe they were exposed to harmful Depleted Uranium conditions, such as being in a vehicle when it was struck by friendly fire or in a vehicle or building after it had been struck by friendly fire, and would like to be screened for DU exposure, should contact their nearest VA Medical Center. Such veterans may be eligible to be awarded a service-connected disability.

It is essential for veterans to understand that while certain medical conditions are classified as presumptive and automatically recognized as service-connected, there are other conditions that do not fall under this category yet can still be claimed as service-connected. This distinction is crucial as it empowers veterans to advocate for their rights and seek the benefits they deserve. By familiarizing yourself with these non-presumptive conditions and the necessary evidence required to establish a service connection, veterans can navigate the complexities of the claims process with greater confidence.

Did you know the Military Family GI Bill Promise Act will ensure that veterans can transfer their benefits to family members and dependents even after they have retired or been honorably discharged?

Veterans are more likely to develop prostate cancer than the general population due to a combination of service-related exposures, demographic factors, and healthcare challenges. One of the most significant contributors is exposure to toxic substances such as Agent Orange, a chemical used during the Vietnam War that has been directly linked to increased prostate cancer risk. The U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) recognizes this connection and lists prostate cancer as a presumptive condition for those exposed. Additionally, many veterans are older, and since age is a major risk factor for prostate cancer, this increases their overall vulnerability. Military service can also involve exposure to other harmful substances—like burn pits or radiation—depending on the era and location of deployment. Compounding these risks, some veterans may face barriers to consistent healthcare access, resulting in delayed screenings and diagnoses. These combined factors contribute to a disproportionate impact of prostate cancer on the veteran population.

Did you know most Veteran disability lawyers understand that the process to obtain disability compensation can be overwhelming, especially when you have a disability to deal with? Also, you do not have to worry about the cost of hiring, most Veteran disability lawyers charge a contingency fee on the benefits, and the VA keeps tabs to ensure fair charges and they abide by the rules.

Did you know as is the case in practically all asbestos and mesothelioma lawsuits, a claim is filed against the manufacturers of asbestos products, not employers that used asbestos products without knowledge of the hazardous effects? Aside from filing a claim against the asbestos manufacturer responsible for exposure, ailing veterans do have the legal option to seek assistance through The U.S. Department of Veteran Affairs (VA).

Inclusion Body Myositis (IBM) is a rare autoimmune muscle disease that primarily affects older veterans. It is characterized by progressive muscle weakness and atrophy, particularly in the arms and legs. IBM is a chronic condition that can impact daily activities and mobility. While the exact cause of IBM is unknown, it is believed to involve a combination of genetic and environmental factors. Early diagnosis and management are crucial in slowing down the progression of IBM and improving quality of life.

Did you know during the Vietnam War, more than 2 million U.S. veterans were exposed to the toxic herbicide known as Agent Orange, which has been associated with elevated rates of diabetes and heart problems? Soldiers who participated in the 1990-1991 Gulf War were exposed to ammunition containing depleted uranium, and acrid smoke spewing from out-of-control oil fires. And all war veterans display high rates of hearing loss, as well as chronic knee, back, neck and shoulder pain associated with carrying heavy packs of ammunition and other gear.
Extraskeletal Ewing's Sarcoma (EES) is a rare and aggressive soft tissue cancer that can significantly impact veterans, particularly those who were exposed to herbicides like Agent Orange during their military service. Unlike traditional Ewing's sarcoma, which originates in bone, EES develops in soft tissues, often making it more difficult to detect and treat early. For veterans, the implications are twofold: health-wise, the disease can cause severe pain, swelling, and functional impairment, with a relatively high risk of local recurrence and metastasis. On the administrative side, the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) recognizes EES as one of the soft tissue sarcomas presumed to be service-connected if the veteran served in a location where Agent Orange was used, such as Vietnam. This designation allows affected veterans to access vital VA benefits, including healthcare and disability compensation, without needing to prove a direct causal link between their cancer and military service.

Chapter 35 is a monthly stipend paid to the dependents of veterans who have died or been permanently disabled in the line of duty, while they are in school. It cannot be used in conjunction with a GI Bill or Fry Scholarship. Eligible individuals are veterans' and active duty service members' dependents, spouses, and surviving spouses who have been found eligible because of one of the following:
• The veteran's death was caused by the service-connected disability
• The veteran is rated for total and permanent service-connected disability
• The service member is Missing in Action (MIA)
• The service member is captured in the line of duty
• The service member is forcibly detained for longer than 90 days
• The service member who VA determines has a service-connected permanent and total disability that will result in a discharge from military service
• Participants include a dependent child between the ages of 14 to 31 and a spouse, or surviving spouse, who qualifies for the benefit.

Remember..... That all gave some, but many gave all

CABIN UPDATE

I would like to thank everyone for attending the August meeting. Thanks for the tasty snacks from Kitty, Lynne Jean and Lylette.

Lylette Smith will be the Chaplain and Betty Conlon will help when Lylette has another commitment.

Speaking of Betty Conlon she is doing very well, still at her daughter's home recovering. Thanks everyone for the cards and calls.

Sam gave a great report on the convention, sounds like it was very nice.

October 18th is the Waukesha County Fall into Fall Bake Walk. It will be held at the Mukwonago American Legion.

October 5th is Octoberfest at the post. The auxiliary will bring desserts to donate to the meal. We will also have a 50/50 raffle. I know it's a couple months away, but a nice welcome to fall.

More information at the September meeting.

Pictured on page 8 is the young lady we sponsored for Badger State, Alba Meyers and her mom Maria Meyers. Alba attended the meeting and spoke of her experience. She went all the way to the national level. She met Wisconsin Senators Johnson and Baldwin. It sounds like a remarkable experience in Washington DC.

Our next meeting is September 16. Hope everyone has a good month and we see you in September. (Isn't that a song?)
